IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my husband, N. R. Jordan, and our step-father, who departed this life three years ago, Oct. 12, 1958.
Sorry we ever had to part,
It left such a sad feeling in my heart.
The only consolation is to know,
That we will meet on that celestial shore.

A H.S. To Play Brosville Fri.

The Appomattox High School Rebels will celebrate Homecoming this Friday at 8:00 P. M., when they meet Brosville High School in District 2, Group 4 football game here.

The Rebels, after playing a fine game at Brookville last week, hope to have found the right combination on offense and defense to carry them through Friday night's game against the Brosville team from Danville. Jamerson, Billy Allen Burks, and Jimmy Torrence. With this win, the boys hope to keep going for this Friday night's game.

The Junior Varsiy football team now has a record of 2 wins and 1 loss. They have won over V. E. S. by scores of 12 to 0 and 19 to 0, and lost to Amherst 10 to 0.

DR. FRANKLIN'S MEMORY HONORED AT PAMPLIN

Elon Baptist Church of Pamplin was the scene Sunday morning, October 15, 1961, or a memorial Service for the late Dr. James D. Franklin. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. John Leslie Hart.

The sermon was by Dr. Solon B. Cousins, former head of the Department of Bible and Religion at the University of Richmond. He knew Dr. Franklin over a long period of years and gave a brief review of his life from his boyhood at Pamplin and his manifold and activities at Elon Baptist Church to the time of his retirement several years ago. At an early age he manifested his keen interest in the affairs of God's Kingdom and dedicated his life to its work. Dr. Cousins spoke with feeling and inspiration of Dr. Franklin's devotion and accomplishments as a pastor, educator and administrator; and as a Christian statesman of worldwide interests and appreciation. Standing high on the list of his many fine traits of charater was his genuine love and concern for people; all people everywhere. He never lost an opportunity to serve. He believed not only in universal God, but a personal one working through man to man.

Dr. Cousins, speaking of his friend and co-worker, did in his own inimitable way bring vividly to the minds of his large and appreciative audience a true and living picture of the life and work of this great and humble servant of God.

This morning's service at Elon Church was the occasion not only of the brotherline of the church membership and other local People, but also of friends from many parts of the state.

At the close of the sermon Dr. Cousins on behalf of Dr. Franklin's sister, Miss Kate Franklin presented to the church a brass cross and offering plates as a memorial to her brother. Mr. Malcolm Isaac, Chairman of the Board of Deacons, accepted the gift for the church.

The Young Adult Choir of the church rendered appropriate selections for the service and Mr. James Hall a solo, "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied by Mrs. Elsie Carter Harris, organist.

Major William Wildman of Fork Union lead the Responsive Reading. Dr. Cousins pronounced the Benediction.

Pipe Line Project Is Readied Here

Workers are coming in for a big pipe-laying project for the Transcontinental Natural Gas Pipeline Co. here. It is believed that up to 150 workers, many with their families, will be stationed here for up to two months, while a 22½ mile "loop" is being set up.

The project is being handled by Williams Bros., who did a similar job here in 1955. The specs of 100 workers is tentative.

The new "loop" will use 36 inch pipe, as compared to the 30 inch in the two earlier lines.

Transco pipes gas to the New York and intermediate areas, from Texas, and Appomattox by the locate of Compressor Station No. 170, and this activity is one of the principal factors in community projects here.

Transco is currently pumping over 1 billion cubic feet of natural gas daily over its line through Appomattox. The operation makes up to two of the area's major sources of livelihood.

Townspeople will recall the pleasant friendship with pipe-line wers here in 1951 and 1955, and w welcome the new "crew" coming now with Williams Bros. group to here for up to two months.

SERVICE AT SPOUT SPRING

SOIL IMPROVEMENT GREAT PART OF FARM EFFICIENCY.

By John L. Harrison.

On any kind of farm soil productivity is directly or indirectly the source of all agricultural wealth. Improving the soil's fertility and productivity through proper management and the use of adopted conservation practices is an indispensable part of any sound farm management program. Improvement of the land's capacity to produce can be achieved, however, only by adopting practices to the land to suit the needs of each individual farm.

Many methods in the past have resulted in serious damage to the land and often to the point that it could not be repaired but required a complete job of restoration to even reclaim it. Sound soil management includes the use of the best conservation practices but effective soil management is much more than holding top soil. It means increasing its productivity by a proper land use program so ha over an indefinite period it will not deteriorate, but will improve with use.

Almost any worthwhile program for improving soil will begin with a knowledge of the types of soil found on any farm, their productive ability, their susceptibility to erosion, their lime requirements, fertilizer requirements, and water holding capacity. To secure all above information, requires time and usually assistance from local professional agricultural workers.

Cultivating gentle slopes in contour bands or strips conserves water and protects against soil and fertility losses. This practice to be effective often necessities the addition of grasses to clover and lespedeza in the retation giving a fiberous root system to hold soil particles in place, and catch any moving particles from cultivated areas up slope.

Sod water ways can often prevent or replace gullies and serve as an avenue to carry clear water to low lying areas, thus reducing the silt load that fills stream channels and results in flooding of low land along stream.

Drainage of wet bottom land is an important part of soil management program on many farms, especially where water on the hillside is prevented from rushing down hill.

On land too steep for safe cultivation, desirable pasture plants can be made to grow, thus adding to the farm livestock program.
